In the last weeks of Ginger's life I know that she was comforted by the fact that she was being so well cared for and loved by Cindy and Larry's family. Thank you for showing her respect and dignity to the end of her life. Your friend, Elizabeth B.

I share your sadness in the loss of your Mom and Grandma, Ginger. Having been their neighbor for many years, I quickly learned that if you saw one, just look for the other as they wouldn't be far apart. Your mom/grandma was a true farmer's wife in all the best of ways. No doubt each of you have many many fond memories to help soften this sting of loss. But, it still brings pain to realize that another from that generation of 'true grit' has left us. No doubt she and Norm are now discussing crops and reminiscing about how good God was to them, as he has been to you in having such a loving and devoted mother and grandmother. Sue G.
